MERRY PARTY OF TOURISTS.

People From Webster, Irvington and Other Points Go to Mammoth Cave.

DESCRIPTION OF THE TRIP.

Mr. James Clinton Crutcher, the affable and popular agent of the Henderson route, who is located at Webster, consummated his project in getting up a cave party last week and escorting them to the Mammoth Cave. The party consisted of Messrs. Thomas Lyddan, J. C. Crutcher and Misses Norris Kirtz and Nannie Lyddan, of Webster; Mr. Jesse Henderson and wife and Miss Mary Wreather, of Irvington; T. L. Bell and wife and Miss Ella Robertson, of Guntion; Miss Bernice Shacklett, of Eron; Messrs. W. D. Ashcroft, Frank Webb and Misses Mabel Simmons, Mary Price and Eula Owens, of Brandenburg; Messrs. Overton and Murray Blanford and Misses Anna Parns and Alberta Drury, of Bewleyville; Misses Mary Eliza Haraway and Pansy Paris, of St. Louis and Lucile Henderson, of New Orleans, who are visiting relatives near Guntion and Irvington. There were several who joined our party at the cave, some from Georgia, Tennessee, Ohio and Missouri, making about thirty that went through the cave together.

Although certain parts of the cave are fraught with danger, our party traversed twenty-six miles of it without a casualty, except the spraining of an ankle of one of the gentlemen. The cave owners say there are 135 discovered miles of cavern in the Mammoth Cave. The writer has gone through both the Wyandotte cave of Indiana and the Mammoth cave of Kentucky and, as to beauty, the former has it, but when it comes to the immensity of the thing the Mammoth cave of course has got in her "bind." The long route of the Mammoth is nine miles and not a single stalactite or stalagmite is to be seen, while the Wyandotte cave has thousands of them. But the short route of Mammoth cave has a great many stalactites and stalagmites.

Of course one could write up a great many interesting things concerning the Mammoth cave, but there are so many books, pamphlets, etc., already written that it is useless to bother our good boys with more. The old hotel too is a curiosity within itself. The quaint old building, some of it probably three quarters of a century old, with an annex of log cabins straight in a row for 500 feet, each joined to the other, has in front a porch the same length with solid wooden columns. The hotel grounds and vicinity are filled with the "Forest Primrose," for almost every imaginable variety of tree can be found there, some of them seeming to measure three and four feet in diameter. The management keeps everything immaculately clean and tries to please their guests in every particular. Every one in our party seemed to be so well pleased that it is useless to say that a trip to the Mammoth Cave is well worth your time and money, but I would advise going in a party. Mr. Clint Crutcher is thinking of getting up a party for Niagara Falls and I want to say right here that if he does and takes charge of it himself there will be neither care nor pains spared to make you enjoy yourself. Each and everyone of our party herein extends his heartfelt gratitude and appreciation to Mr. Crutcher for his kindness and care while on this trip.

Part of the stock for W. J. Tilford's new general merchandise store arrived last week and the remainder will arrive and be placed in the Fair building before next Saturday, so the house will be ready to open for business on that day, as advertised in the News. Mr. Tilford has been in the mercantile business twenty-seven years. He has just closed out four general merchandise houses, one at each of the following towns: Birc City, Crumwell, Morgantown and Curdsville.

Will Buy Fenley Fire Clay.

The Auburn Ash Coal Company is making arrangements to furnish the Murray Roofing Tile Company with fire clay to be used at the latter company's factory in connection with shale, in the manufacture of roofing tile. The clay is found in the Auburn Ash Coal Company's coal mines at Fenley, Hancock county. It underlies the coal and there are large deposits. Switches are now being laid at Fenley for the purpose of mining the fire clay and everything will be in readiness to ship it over the Henderson route to this city when the Murray Roofing Tile Co.'s factory begins operations.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. T. Lewis, of the Irvington Baptist church, assisted by Rev. Hines, of the Methodist church, at Irvington.

Mrs. Gardner is survived by her husband and the following children: Mrs. Sully Hendry, of West Point, Ill.; Will, Newsum, John and Jesse Gardner. Two children are dead. In 1862 Mrs. Gardner was born. About 1865 she was married to Mr. Elisha Gardner. They lived on the Scott Smart place in the Hite's Run neighborhood a short time then in this city. Later they moved to Union Star.

Mrs. Gardner was a member of the Cloverport Baptist church for years. She is well-remembered in this city and vicinity and was known and beloved by many acquaintances at Union Star who led an exemplary life in every respect, was the mother of a family of honorable men and women, and her loss is deeply felt in the community in which she lived and endeared herself into others.

Catastrophe of the Stomach.

When the stomach is overloaded; when food is taken into it that fails to digest, it decays and inflames the mucous membrane, exposing the nerves and causes the glands to secrete mucus, instead of the natural juices of digestion. This is called Catarrh of the stomach. For years I suffered with Catarrh of the Stomach, caused by indigestion. Doctors and medicines failed to benefit me until I used Kotol Dyspepsia Cure—J. R. "I had scrofula and erysipelas for eighteen years, until I heard"

Of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mr. Henry Koon, of Queens, W. Va. "When I commenced to take this medicine I weighed one hundred and thirty pounds. I have taken six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and three vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets,' and am glad to say I feel like a new man. I now weigh one hundred and seventy-five pounds. When I used one bottle of the medicine I could feel it was helping me. I realize Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best medicine on earth."

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood and entirely eradicates the poisons that breed and feed disease. It cures scrofula, eczema, erysipelas, boils, pimples and other eruptions that mar and scar the skin. Pure blood is essential to good health. The weak, run-down, debilitated condition which so many people experience is commonly the effect of impure blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery not only cleanses the blood of impurities, but it increases the activity of the blood-making glands, and it enriches the body with an abundant supply of pure, rich blood.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 31 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A Minister's Labors.

From an open letter in August Century.

Apart from the labors that fruit in to pulp ministry and pastoral and public service is no accounting to be made of the mental strain and the spiritual travel which are an inalienable part of the ministerial calling! Not only does the minister carry on his heart the sorrows of a great many persons who look to him for succor, but there are hours when the tide of his own faith ebbs. Is a minister's fight with his doubts worth anything to the world? Because he always seems sure of his hold on the eternal verities, is it to be thought that he is content to pass on to others a merely traditional faith. Instead of this that has been wrought out in long hours of painful questioning and wrought at last triumphantly into the very texture of his own life! The effort which a minister makes to keep and broaden, to intensify and make real, his own faith, to adjust it to the growing light of science, is as necessary and as noble a part of his work as anything that he does.

The Kentucky Press association met at Lexington last week and was royally entertained by the citizens and local members of the Press. The keys of the city were handed over by Mayor Duncan and for two days it was a merry go round of sight seeing and entertainment. Lexington is a city of beautiful homes, institutions of learning and education. No other city in the State is so well equipped along these lines. The Eastern Asylum for the Deaf and Blind, the Kentucky Reform School and the State College were all visited by the members of the association in a body and shown through these institutions. They are a credit to any State and are certainly well conducted and managed. One that has never visited these institutions has very little idea of what is being done for the unfortunate creatures who are sent there. The Reform school is certainly a great institution and a revelation to persons who are not acquainted with its methods of caring for the boys and girls. The association spent a most enjoyable afternoon as guests of the Superintendent and Commissioners. Editor Walton, who is one of the Commissioners, was especially courteous. The news wants to thank the good citizens of Lexington and especially the Press of that city for a royal good time. We enjoyed the stay, enjoyed meeting the members of the Association and everything connected with the trip. It was one of the best meetings we have attended in years.

THE FARMER.

There is an old saying that "He who can grow two blades of grain to grow where one grew before, is a public benefactor." If that is true, what shall be said of the man who drains the pestilent swamp; turning its sour clods up to the air and sunshine, causing them to grow with grain? What shall be said of the man who removes the stones from a rocky hillside until at last he has a hillside of growing corn? Are not such men benefactors in the highest sense?

The farmer is often a subject for ridicule. He is represented as lean and bony, with a ragged hair on his chin, pantaloons supported by one suspender and a wig of hay in his hair. This is hardly a true picture. A typical farmer may have hands showing the signs of hard labor, but he has a well-fitting suit of good clothes, good boots, hat and overcoat, and a pocket-book with some money in it.

A farmer is usually handicapped by his isolation. He is far from neighbors and has little to do with social courtesies. In this way he sometimes becomes narrow and self-centered. But he also has advantages. His life is a natural and normal one. He comes in close touch with all the beauty of nature. He has more beautiful scenery than that upon which his city brother games in the theater. He listens to concerts more delightful than any ever heard in a concert hall. The farmer represents the absolute necessities of life. If he works not, we eat not. He is trained to the great nature, not to city watches. There is no way in which the hustle and bustle of the city can bring results to pass in his labor. You cannot hasten a field of ripening grain nor hasten an orchard of maturing fruit.

Should Live in the Country.

Every boy or girl should live in the country till ten years of age. Gold pity the child who is born in a narrow street of a great city, who has not had a bit of green grass on which to place his feet, and who has never lain on his back in some plowed pasture and watched the white clouds drift across the blue sky and dreamed of the country he would do when once he became a man.

The farmer is also one of the most independent of men. If he has a fairly good farm he can raise all that is necessary for the supply of his wants. No combination of great business can crowd him out, for he raises his own food, no combination of meat or food producers can starve him out, as he can raise his own food. We are all dependent upon the farmer and his products. Practically all our food products come from him. The industries which are the centers of business, politics and practical affairs are the children or grandchildren of farmers, and are spending the energy which their fathers stored up by a life of hard labor. Many society girls in finery of tulle and silk and diamonds, in strength and force. Society is always fed by the farm, but new and vigorous shoots are the result of the soil. The farmer is perfect in his own order and place. The only way in which a man can get out of it is by giving him the measure of respect that is due his fruitful labors.

A WORD TO FARM TOILERS.

PAIN'S CEREAL COMPOUND

The Home Friend of the Farmer and His Family.

After the labors and toils of the summer time, and harvesting of crops in the early autumn, many of our farmers, their wives, daughters, and sons, find themselves in a condition of health demanding careful attention if suffering is to be avoided later on. Many experience kidney trouble in some form with some the first signs of this illness, nausea, and vomiting, with loss of appetite and depression of spirit. Thousands who have been exposed to cold, damp winds and rains while toiling in the harvest fields, now feel the twinges of terrible rheumatism; often run down by weary, overwork, and irregular dining, are tormented with the pangs of dyspepsia.
To the thousands of run down, sickly, and half dead men and women in farm homes we recommend with all honesty and confidence the worker's friend, Paine's Cereal Compound, the only medicine that can quickly and fully restore strength to the weak body and vigor to the muscles. Paine's Cereal Compound tones the stomach; removes poisonous acids from the blood which cause rheumatism; it feeds the weak and diseased nerves and banishes neuralgic tortures; it purifies the blood and gives true vitality and life. The use of Paine's Cereal Compound in autumn means the establishing of a perfect physical vigor to withstand the rigors of a severe winter.

Difficult Digestion

That is dyspepsia. It makes life miserable. Its sufferers eat not because they want to, but simply because they must. They know they are irritable and fretful; but they cannot be otherwise.

They complain of a bad taste in the mouth, a tenderness at the pit of the stomach, an uneasy feeling of puffiness, headache, heartburn and what not.

The timely remedy, proved by permanent cures of thousands of severe cases, is

Treat Your Kidneys for Rheumatism

When you are suffering from rheumatism, the kidneys must be attended to at once so that they will eliminate the uric acid from the blood. Foley's Kidney Cure is the most effective remedy for this purpose. R. T. Hopkins, of Polar, Wis., says: "After unsuccessfully doctoring three years for rheumatism with the best doctors, I tried Foley's Kidney Cure and it cured me. I cannot speak too highly of this great medicine."—A. R. Fisher.

Splendid Attractions at Lexington Elks Fair.

There will be a splendid line of attractions at the Lexington Elks Fair this year, the dates being August 10 to 15 inclusive. Besides the seasonal railroad collection in which two real live locomotives weighing 30 tons each will crash together at full speed on the afternoon of Wednesday, the third day, will be DeLaugh's 20th Century Band of 35 musicians. Burk Case Continued—Other Business of the Court.

The following were the principal cases in Circuit Court at Hawesville last week:

The case of Sam Jackson against the railroad was postponed Wednesday, the road paying Jackson $150 and settling all costs. Jackson had his arm injured sometime ago by falling from a scaffold while working on the depot.

The case of Andrew Burk, charged with complicity in the killing of a man named McCrever some years ago, was continued. His brother, Mike Burk, is now serving two years on the same charge, while another brother, Dan Burk, served a while and was pardoned by Governor Beck.

Bettie May Allen, of near Pateville, aged nine, was adjudged of unsound mind.

Case of John Newton, charged with cutting timber on W. H. Lyon's land, was continued.

Edward Ray, a Lewisport negro, aged 21, was adjudged a pauper idiot and his mother will receive $25 annually from the state for his keeping.

A Miss Monarch, of near Lewisport, was again adjudged an idiot. The unfortunate woman is about forty years old, and has been repeatedly tried every four years, according to law.

Very Remarkable Cure of Diarrhoea.

"About six years ago for the first time in my life I had a sudden and severe attack of diarrhoea," says Mrs. Alice Miller, of Morgan, Texas. "I got temporary relief, but it came back again and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' prescriptions and treatment without avail. Finally we moved to Bosque county, our present home, and one day I happened to see a newspaper of a gentleman, J. C. Colic, Chobers and Diarrhoea Remedy with a testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The case was so similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy. The result was wonderful. I could hardly realize that it was well again, or believe it could be so after having suffered so long, but after one bottle of medicine, costing but a few cents, cured me." THE DORF'S BLACK-DRAGHT FOR CONSTIPATION

Constipation is nothing more than a clogging of the bowels and nothing less than a vital stagnation or death if not relieved. If every constipated sufferer could see that he is allowing a poisonous filth to remain in his system, he would soon get relief. Constipation invites all kind of contagion. Headaches, biliousness, colds and many other ailments disappear when constipated bowels are relieved. Theodor's Black-Dracht thoroughly cleans out the bowels in a natural and natural manner without the purging of calomel or other violent cathartics.
Be sure that you get the original Theodor's Black-Dracht, made by The Chattanooga Medicine Co. Sold by all druggists in 25 cent and $1.00 packages.
New York, N. Y., May 15, 1901.
I cannot recommend Theodor's Black-Dracht highly enough. I have used it all the time and have used it for my family. It is a sure, safe, and effective remedy. I have never seen any other laxative. I think I could never be able to live without it on account of being troubled with constipation. I have used it for years and it all keeps me well.

MRS. H. B. GRINNELL
ON BREATHITT COUNTY.

When we consider that one third of the white voters of Breathitt county are unable to read or write, we wonder, here others, why they do not missionaries sent there long ago. That county has always had a deficit in its account with the state. Out of fifty-one felony cases on the docket at a single term of court, there was not one conviction. There have been some convictions since the present governor went into office but he has granted pardons in twenty-eight cases. These statistics apply to the white population so it must be a paradise for black negroes may be there. No lynchings are reported from Breathitt; the whites are too busy settling their own grudges and enmities. The schoolmaster is not abroad in that county and it is hard to civilize people without school houses. The courts have hitherto encouraged lawlessness by failing to punish. There are twelve counties in this state without a newspaper and without schoolhouses enough "to say so."

You cannot get figs from thistles. The Democratic papers are laying everything at the Republican's door. In the great Goebel-Taylor contest. We only wish to remind them of one glaring, head-light fact. Taylor was elected Governor of Kentucky by the voice of the people. Who stole the office from him? What caused these trouble in Frankfort? What really led us to the assassination of Goebel? Not a Republican in Kentucky any standing ever rejoiced at Goebel's death or ever convided at it. Every Democrat in the state was bilious over Taylor being deprived of his seat and upheld those who did.

Brutally Tortured.

A case came to light that for persistent and unmerciful torture has perhaps never been equaled. Joe Goelobich of Colma, Calif., writes: "For 15 years I endured unnumberable pain from Rheumatism and nothing relieved me though I tried everything known. I came across Electric Bitters and it's the greatest medicine on earth for that trouble. A few bottles of it completely relieved and cured me." Just as good for Liver and Kidney troubles and general debility. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by Short & Haynes, Druggists.

Lexington, Ky., July 28.—Curtis Jett and Tom White, who have been in the Lexington jail for safekeeping since their trial at Jackson, several weeks ago, were taken to Cynthia on the 7 o'clock train this morning in charge of Sheriff Leach and one deputy of Harrison county. Both of the men seemed anxious to be taken to Cynthia, where they think the people are not so bitter against them.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. It is called Swamp-Root. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the blood will attack the vital organs or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away call by call.

Bladder troubles most always result from a diseased condition of the kidneys and are obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you may mistake by making no mistake by Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold with all druggists in fifty-cent and dollar sized bottles. You may have a small bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both Swamp-Root sent free by mail, Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name of Swamp-Root. Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

The International Sunday-School Lesson.

THIRD QUARTER. LESSON V. 1 Samuel 1:1-12 AUGUST 2, 1903.

Samuel Anselm Davis.

That obscure Judean village is in a tumult. The even tenor of its rural life is broken up. An unlooked-for guest has arrived in the person of a man who outranks the king himself in the popular esteem and confidence. Samuel the judge has made a detour from his ordinary circuit, and has come to Bethlehem, east of the cities of Judah. What does his coming portend? The dull town is aroused, while the elders hasten to the gate to forestall, if possible, any impending judgment.

A moment later the most prosperous home in the place, that of the prosperous Judean sheik, Jesse, is astir in preparation for a guest who is the most revered man of the nation. The social banquet is ready. The goodly favor of the roasted heifer fills the place; the guests are coming; the servants run hither and thither. Samuel, at once guest, host, and synarch, is about to take his place.

A shepherd lad, on the rough Judean steppes near by tends his father's sheep. He may have seen the prophet pass, or noted the tumult in the town, but he is fidelity's self. Curiosity nor self-interest lure him from his duty. Shepherding sheep has been his non-committal preparation to shepherd men. His task has developed the traits of courage, patience, and sympathy. Boldness has been favorable to devotion. As a devout improvisator, he has often broken the silence under the stars with the noble strains of his psalmody, accompanying the same with his harp, making yonder cliff come in with the refrain.

The last is first. He who was not bidden even to the lowest seat at the table is called to the head of the table. A servant relieves David in the care of the sheep and he hurries, without opportunity to make a toilet, into the sacred presence of the prophet. The candidate to the throne is in the bloom of youth. His healthful occupation has given him a ruddy cheek, while abnara looks upon a marble brow, are suggestive of the golden crown he shall soon wear. But these adolescent charms of person are not to be compared with the graces of the heart for which the Lord first makes his quest. David breathes deeply the theocratic spirit. He loves and supremely. His foremost purpose is to be loyal and dutiful to Jehovah, and loving and helpful to his fellows. In this he is a man after God's heart. This constitutes his singular adaptation to the theocratic kingship, a position still general in history.

As David entered the banquet-room, Samuel's holy mentor says in the prophet's heart, "Up!" "Anointed!" In a moment the beaten and fragrant oil of the tabernacle is glittering up on those golden locks. Possibly no one in the company, save the prophet, understands the significance of the scene. A royal destiny for a shepherd-boy—who could divine it? So, after this episode the feast goes on and perhaps the lad, not having been "sanctified" for the feast, goes back to the sheep. But David must know the meaning of the prophet's enigmatical act. It slowly dawns upon his illuminated consciousness. Preparation for his high call keeps pace with his ever increasing knowledge of the claims and duties of kingship. There is a prophetic occupation and enlightenment of his inner life by the Spirit.

It matters little whether this divine culture of the young king was mediated or immediate. Samuel may have been his mentor as he was Saul's. The Bethlehemite lad may have made more frequent pilgrimages to Ramah; or, like Saul, he may have taken a course in one of the divinity schools. These mediate methods, however, are in no way inimical to the immediate influence of the Spirit. The Lord which came upon David at the time of his anointing from that day forward.

However that may be when the hour of coronation came, the kindly office was matched by a kindly character. The manifold and imperative exactions of a position which had no precise parallel in history, were met by a versatile character, developed and inured to meet those exactions. David could both compose battle-hymns for his army and in person lead to battle. He could both make law and administer it. He could maintain the delicate equilibrium between the recluse and man of affairs. With a master hand he changed the whole face of Hebrew history. Samuel's anointing of David was the last official act, the golden oil of a long, useful, and honorable career.

The Teacher's Lesson

Samuel's grief for Saul was evident. He was a good man and his disposition. While he still lived, he could not easily treat him as if he were dead. Though he did not visit him, he bitterly lamented his downfall. But here was a boundary beyond which this grief was improper. That limit was the point at which it disqualified him for obedience to God and service to his country in finding a successor to the fallen monarch. Grief is natural, it is even honorable; but there is always a point at which a halt must be called to it. That point is where it begins to disqualify one for the service of his life.

The one of grief is here indicated. Substitution: I have rejected him. Hope: Fill thine horn and go. Hope: I have provided a king. Dr. Trumbull, the versatile editor of the Sunday-school Times, carries his proposition "A never justifiable," so far as to inhibit military maneuvers in war. I am not certain how he treats the incident under consideration. I should think it would be enough to wreck his well-meant but overstrained theory. If the sacrifice proposed was a mere pious fraud, a hollow form, engaged in a perfunctory way, for the purpose of blinding Saul, it would be open to criticism. But Samuel could and did enter into this sacred service of sacrifice devoted and earnestly as if he had had no additional purpose. It was concealment, not deception.

However, the Bible does not stand or fall by the answer to the question whether on this occasion Samuel made pretense of a sacrifice or not. The Scripture narrative is not the portrayal of ideally perfect characters, but rather of the genesis and evolution of conscience in man. What the men of one era can do conscientiously, the men of later ought not to be able to do. The standard of one age can not be those of another.

Blood will tell. The king-elect had an unimpaired train of noble ancestors. He inherited the princely integrity of Boaz and the devoted fidelity of Ruth. Yet David's attitude for a kingship did not show in his physical appearance. Samuel would not have elected him at sight. As Lincoln passed through a throng a spectator said: "He's a dreadful common-looking man." The President, over hearing the remark, turned and said, good naturedly, "It only shows how well the Lord likes common folks, that he has made so many of us that way." Moral qualities are more important than physical.

Yonah is no bar in the Lord's service. David called at seventeen. Samuel at twelve. Polyarp was converted at nine, Matthew Henry at eleven, President Edwards at eleven, Robert Hall at twelve, Isaac Watts at nine. Great are the gains to the individual, the church, the world, of early piety.

The hero-life of David gives the lie to the iterated accusation that the religious character is a spiritless and effeminate type. It shows religion compatible with courage, intrepidity, and clear grit. Yet fervent piety overtops David's other traits. The elements of his character are transfigured with faith and prayer and piety.

There are no human gauges to measure the inspirational force of such a life. While it quickens the pulse of youth, it will also prompt an imitation of its noble traits. It is a voice crying, "Blow, blow the clarion, fill the life!"

To all the sensual world proclaim, One crowded hour of glorious life, Is worth an age without a name!"
